CONCENTRATE

Y our Advertising

And Keep Everlastingly At It

Cover Field

The important item in advertising your business is to get your message to the people promptly, and knowing where it is going.

Distribution is the all-important factor in advertising, the limit of advertising being within the limit of distribution and the quality of same.

After getting distribution the next thing that adds prestige of your store news is the class of advertising you use, and at this point it is important for the advertiser to recognize the value and prestige of an established and well distributed newspaper that stands in a class by itself, and which all experienced advertisers classify as first and above all classifications of allvertising.

This classification is given the newspaper due to its thorough distribution in worth-while homes where they pay to get their news, prestige and morale of the paper; and the fact that for every paid subscription there is an established standard value of five bona-fide readers.

Then, again, there is no class of legitimate and judicious advertising medium that is as reasonable in cost as newspaper advertising.

Save Money

By concentrating your advertising in your home newspapers you will not only cover the field of your trade territory thoroughly, but at the same time you will save much money.

Remember that a dollar saved is a dollar made.

By concentrating your advertising and being persistent in acquainting the public with the happenings at your store you will find that your advertising investment will be most profitable.

Much money can be saved by the elimination of the many so-called stunts, schemes and other items that are sold by high powered salesmen under the guise of advertising, ninety per cent of which have no value, nor recognized as legitimate advertising.

Surely the wise business man will profit by keeping the hands of such high powered salesmen out of his cash drawer, for it is the money such salesmen and scheemers are after rather than service from what they have to sell.

There is much waste and expense in using such schemes being sold under the guise of advertising, the cost of which should be charged to the expense account instead of the advertising account.

The facts covering such illegitimate items are matters of record with the advertising profession after many years of survey, checking up and verification.

"Changing The Attitude of Mind"

President Calvin Coolidge Says

President Coolidge in his recent address before the American Association of Advertising Agencies, said:

When we stop to consider the past which advertising plays in the modern life of production and made we see that pasically it is that of education. It informs its readers of the existence and mainty of commodities by explaining the advantages to be derived from their use and relates for them a wider demand. It makes new thoughts, new desires, and new actions. By changing the attitude of mind it changes the material condition of the people..."

The Literary Digest Says

"Advertising not only persuades individual readers to buy, at once or eventually, but it exerts a vital indirect influence; it works through force of example.

"At every income level, in every stratum of society, in every community, there are certain persons who form judgments and express them and make them effective. Their example is followed and their opinion is accepted as being authoritative. They have one common characteristic—alertness.

After people are continually establishing reputations by passing along information about products which they have seen advertised, which they may have themselves used as a result of advertising and their faith in which has been confirmed by furter reading of the advertising.

"The most effective principle that any business can adopt is to gain and to maintain the good will, the favorable opinion, of the alert, by persistent advertising."

They See--They Remember-They Act

What Psychologists Say About Memory

Psychologists, including Scott, James, Adams, Ebbinghaus and others, say memory is a

They proved scientifically that within twenty-four hours after the mind has received a definite impression, twenty-five persons out of every one hundred have forgotten it.

In two days more than half of the hundred have forgotten and in four days less than one-fourth of the hundred people can remember the impression received.

Remember, too, that these figures apply only to DEFINITE impressions and that hazy, INDEFINITE impressions — the vast majority — fade away almost immediately.

To overcome the tendency to forget, advertising must be seen and read repeatedly. Only then does it make a LASTING impression.

The wide-awake business institution that caters to the public for a livelyhood—and this means over 95 per cent of all businesses—has to be alert 365 days in the year if it expects to succeed.

There is no let up in business, for time and conditions change over night, and the wise business man does not want to be caught "napping".

Among The Things We Sell is the Mood for News

In publishing a newspaper we manufacture advertising space to sell.

Its value is measured by the number of our readers plus their interest and confidence in the paper they have selected as "theirs."

Their purchase of it constitutes their invitation to you to put your husiness message before them through its columns.

When they sit down to read it they are in the mood for news—your news, if you have any.

This means that they'll read it gladly and responsively.

Even a personal letter from you might not happen to reach them when they're in so favorable a mood as when they read their newspaper.

The reader's mood for news is therefore one of the things we sell in selling advertising pace.

The 100,000 Eyes of Our Readers Are Yours to Command

The cost of such a substantial investment in Advertising Space in these mediums is most reasonable and you get immediate coverage throughout this wide trade territory.
